REPORT OF LIBRARIAN

Trustees and librarian wish to thank the many friends who have given books and magazines to the library.

We have placed two racks in the library to display our latest books and magazines to a better advantage.

We appreciate the generous gift from the late W. W. Kimball; and would say about a year ago he gave many books which are on our shelves today.

Our library hours have been changed to 3:30 P. M. right through to 7:30 P. M.

We wish to thank the teachers for their cooperation during the past year.

REPORT OF FIREWARDS

This year we have had a total of 49 runs consisting of 4 general alarms, 35 chimney fires, 5 grass fires, 4 test runs and 1 false alarm. We are pleased to note the reduction in the number of chimney fires which a year ago were 40. This can be further reduced if everyone will be sure to keep their chimneys clean.

We appreciate the splendid cooperation which the telephone company's representatives have given us throughout the year and we want to thank particularly Mrs. Gates for her valuable service.

Through the interest and perseverance of our Fire Chief and his associates, and the cooperation of the members of the New Hampshire Bureau of Underwriters, we may in the near future receive a loan from the Federal Government of a 500 gallon pumper, engine and miscellaneous equipment. This apparatus will be loaned to us for the duration and the possibilities are that after that it will become ours permanently. We have appointed Mr. William A. Parker as custodian of this equipment and have applied for a bond payable to the Federal Government to cover this equipment.

We want to extend to the members of the company the appreciation of everyone for their interest and cooperation.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board and Citizens of Troy:

The present crisis in world affairs has created an emergency in the education of American youth that requires immediate attention and action. Large numbers of pupils and teachers are now leaving school to go to work. The motives which impel youth to leave school for work are understandable. The alarming response to these motives of high wages and the desire to do something definite to help win the war has been made without giving ample thought to other considerations which are of far greater importance to the national welfare. All adults concerned in these matters—particularly employers, school officials, and parents—should see that youths clearly understand certain basic conclusions before making the decision to leave school.

The greatest service which the older boys and girls can render to the war effort is to get ready for the national service which most of them will be called upon to give at the age of eighteen—in the armed forces, in war production, in civilian war agencies, or in specialized training. The high officials of the Army and Navy, of government and industry, have urged youth to use the years up to eighteen to build the foundations of a broad education. This duty of securing an education will pay high dividends in the highly competitive labor market of the world in post-war years. The national welfare and the welfare of youth require that education have first claim on the time and energies of youth.

"Twenty-seven million citizens of the decade beginning 1950 are being prepared in our public schools now for the world that is being shaped with so much 'toil and blood and tears.' How futile our every war effort if these citizens are not fitted for their places!"

This great challenge to our educational system must be met in spite of the innumerable demands on limited time, energy, and materials resulting from the war emergency.

We wish to continue the improvement of the standards in our schools and we must realize that it can be done only through sacrifice and earnest cooperation between teachers, parents and pupils. Research authorities in the field of juvenile delinquency recommend a review of the particular responsibilities of parents for children outside of school time. From this cooperation there will be a clearer understanding among all concerned.

The school plant and equipment is in good condition and well maintained.

The cooperation of the schools in the rationing programs, Victory Corps, activities, war saving investments, and numerous campaigns have produced excellent results.

The lessons of citizenship, the promotion of health, athletics, music and intelligent patriotism are more necessary than ever in our educational system. These essentials of personality which were once known as extra-curricula activities not only stimulate higher scholarship but are morale-builders in times of war or peace.

In conclusion I wish to commend the faithfulness of all teachers, the enthusiasm of the pupils and the cooperation of the parents and citizens in the generous support of the schools, and the war effort, especially during the period when the general functions of supervision are difficult to maintain.

I wish to express my thanks to the members of the School Board for the assistance given me in my work in your schools.

REPORT OF HEADMASTER OF TROY HIGH SCHOOL

To the Superintendent of Schools:

It is my privilege to herewith present my seventh annual report as headmaster of Troy High School.

In September, 1943, the High School began its tenth year as a four year school, and although this report should be primarily concerned with the school year 1942-43, it should be of vital interest to the citizens of Troy to consider the achievements and progress made by the school during its first decade of existence. Even though it is too soon to appraise accurately all gains and losses made during this short period of time, a relatively clear picture can be drawn of our accomplishments to date.

Probably our most important achievement, and the one which should head the list, is the number of finished products which have been turned out, and the use which has been made of these products to society in general. In publishing the list, however, due consideration should also be given to those whom we may consider as having been but partially processed or not bearing the stamp of final inspection. By the finished product I refer to our graduates which number ninety-four for our first nine years as a four year school. The total will exceed one hundred following the graduation of the tenth class in June, 1944.

From records which have been kept as nearly accurate as possible we learn that of these ninety-four graduates, thirty-six considered the value of education highly enough to continue their efforts in post-secondary institutions. These institutions included schools of college, normal, nurse training, business, and trade level, and of those that began such courses, only five have to date failed to continue the prescribed curriculum to its ultimate conclusion with the exception of those who were called for military service. Many of our alumni are still attending advanced schools and yet in spite of our relatively short life, it is indeed gratifying to include among our graduates, six young people who hold bachelor's degrees, five who are registered nurses, seven who have gone through business schools, and four who have learned specific trades at accredited trade schools. Unfortunately the war has disrupted the normal completion of study for many others, or our list might soon include a much larger number. In connection with the war it might be well to mention here that among our alumni (graduates only) are included twenty-nine members of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Merchant Marine. Included also are one Army Nurse, one Navy Nurse, and one member of the WAC. Only six of the male graduates of the past nine years are still in civilian life. Consideration should doubtless also be given to those twenty-one of our girl graduates who have taken up housekeeping as a profession and who, from all appearances, are proving themselves successful in that field.

During its entire ten years of existence as a four year school, the State Board of Education has continually approved it as a standard school and rated it as highly as any other four year high school in the state. Such improvements or changes as have been made in the curriculum have come about through the close cooperation, approval, and in many cases the suggestions of that body. The courses in Home Economics and Mechanic Arts are examples of those improvements, and have certainly justified themselves as worthy additions to the school's former narrow program of study which held out little of value to those pupils who never had or could have hopes of further education beyond Troy.

These two courses are so planned and arranged as to provide for the teaching of certain skills, attitudes, and techniques in their respective fields those boys and girls whose school training will probably be ended with graduation from high school. Such courses appear doubly justified when a check up of our graduates reveals that approximately two-thirds of them completed their formal education in Troy. A further study of our graduates clearly illuminates the fact that in spite of persisting demands for the inclusion of a commercial course in our school, only seven of our graduates desired such training sufficiently to pursue a course of that nature beyond the secondary school, and only four of those that did are now actively engaged in commercial work. From such a survey it would appear uneconomical, if not unsound, to include such a course in our curriculum.

As evidenced by the number of our alumni who have entered and remained in schools of high learning, it would appear that our college preparatory courses are adequate to insure reasonable success.

The fact that all but six of our male graduates have been inducted into military service gives convincing proof that our program of health supervision and athletics has built strong bodies to go with the sound minds developed in the classroom.

Formerly occupying but four rooms in the school plant, we at present make a complete utilization of seven. In a space of but ten years, very complete Home Economics, Mechanic Arts, and Science rooms have been fitted out in the most modern manner, and in a majority of cases surpass those rooms used for similar purposes in many of the other small schools of the state. In addition to these rooms we also utilize another room for music, assemblies, special activities, and visual education. All classes, including those which use the rooms mentioned above, are very adequately equipped with the tools, instruments, supplies, and texts necessary for the most efficient pursuit of the learning process.

The school has been extraordinarily fortunate also to have had a staff of teachers during these ten years whose interest in the pupils and whose educational background and experience has been of such a high type as to deserve favorable commendation. Through their efforts and cooperation the school rapidly improved and now stands among the best. Through their efforts the pupils have received a sound and well grounded education based on the most modern approved practices.

In extra-curricular activities our school has also equalled or surpassed many of its contemporaries. Our athletic teams have been outstanding for so small a school. To cite an example; our basketball team has twice been asked to participate in the annual basketball tournament at Durham, and in previous and subsequent seasons has exemplified the best in sports and earned more than an even share of victories. The school paper, the "Trojan," is considered one of the best for the small schools of the state, earning two prizes for competition among school magazines in the state at the last meeting of school publications staffs at the University of New Hampshire. Its later issues have been most outstanding—the most recent one having a circulation in the neighborhood of three hundred copies. School plays, parties, and socials have been of a high level, and have done much to reflect the most valued tenets of a well-governed school. Closely related to extra-curricular activities is the continued exhibition of thrift and patriotism exemplified through the purchase by our boys and grls of war stamps and bonds. Over 90% of our pupils are making such purchases monthly and as a result, we have been proudly flying the "Minute Man" flag for several months. Total purchases in the school during 1942-43 amounted to $3,582.90.

In recapitulation I think that we may well be proud of the way in which the experiment of a four year high school has resulted. If for no other reason than that we have a high school in town, we should be gratified, but to feel that it is as good, even though it may be smaller, than that which is in the next town, should make us swell with pride. In looking into the future it should be the desire, aim, and ambition of all—townspeople, school board, teachers, and pupils alike—to see that this splendid record is perpetuated and a still higher goal attained. By a true belief in our school and its potentialities, and by a continued healthy spirit of cooperation no one need complain of its inadequacy. True, the school does have its weaknesses, but these will never be improved by destructive criticism, nor by a continued allusion to supposedly superior institutions in adjacent communities. We have established a firm and enduring beachhead—let's push on to still more outstanding gains with undivided support and a ruthless uprooting of sabotage in the form of unfounded and disloyal adverse criticism.

In conclusion may I thank all who have contributed towards the success of the school throughout its embryonic state, and may I invoke your continued support and cooperation for the years which lie ahead.

Respectfully submitted,

GERALD H. FAUNCE Headmaster

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC

The school music program is carried on with the aim of advancement in vocal quality, song repertoire, rhythmic recognition and activity, tone and tune recognition, feeling for mood, appreciation of vocal and instrumental music, study of history and composers, reading ability, and theoretical knowledge,—all of which is attained through the medium of ear training, written work, rhythmic activity and singing.

It was disappointing that, because of food shortage, it was necessary to cancel the New England Music Festival which was to have been held in Plymouth, Mass. in May 1943. Three Troy High School students had been accepted for the All-New England Chorus and were thus deprived of the benefit and pleasure of the Festival. There was no New Hampshire Festival last year, nor will there be a New England Festival this year.

Much has been done to promote patriotic fervor among students. Last spring much work was done in grades I through VIII in a Defense or Victory Song writing project, ending with an exhibit and rendition of all good songs collected from all schools where your Supervisor has charge of the music. The result was over sixty songs, many of them illustrated or decorated, in the collection.

I close with an expression of gratitude to all school officials and teachers for their interest and cooperation.

Respectfully submitted,

MILDRED WHITCOMB
